Last month HM Treasury's Net Zero Review published an interim report outlining the coming steps for green transition and the fine balance needed between households, businesses and the taxpayer. Reaching net zero will be a collective effort across households, businesses and the government. The report explores how people's lives, businesses and the economy will adapt to the shift to net zero, and lays out opportunities in the green industrial revolution. Join us at Energy and Sustainability in Public Sector conference where we will explore the progress that the public sector is making in driving forward the energy and sustainability agenda. Hear from key policy makers and get the latest updates on government policy and targets for implementation.

Why attend?

Practical case study examples from public sector organisations will demonstrate how to fulfil green targets and achieve efficiency improvements in key areas such as accelerating the shift to zero-emission vehicles, promoting green public transport, greener buildings, protecting the natural environment and working towards net zero emissions by 2050.

Northern Ireland Planning Conference 2021

agendaNi's Northern Ireland Planning Conference is now firmly established as the major annual event for all those with an interest or role in planning and development in Northern Ireland. The 2021 conference comes at a time of great change. As of January 2020 we have a functioning Assembly in place with the New Decade, New Approach deal. A key priority of the restored Executive is 'Investing for our Future' – effective planning will be a key component to ensure Northern Ireland's economic and social potential can be realised.

With Minister for Infrastructure Nichola Mallon now in place, decisions on major projects of regional significance can be taken. Local authorities are also progressing Local Development Plans to shape local areas for the next decade and beyond.

However, no one could have guessed that the new decade would begin with the Covid-19 pandemic, affecting all areas of life across the globe and creating exceptional challenges and widespread disruption. The Department for Infrastructure introduced a number of measures to try to overcome some of the obstacles to planning and ensure no unnecessary delays. While these measures were temporary, as we move into the recovery phase of the pandemic, there may be the opportunity to rethink processes. Covid-19, while having a huge economic impact on Northern Ireland, may also give the chance to look again at town and city planning – the long term changes to our work and travel patterns may not be known for some time.

The conference will provide an opportunity for all those with a role or interest in planning locally to come together for discussion and debate. An expert speaker panel comprising local and visiting speakers will look at these issues in detail. Attendees will come from across all sectors and will include government policymakers and decision-takers, other government agencies and NDPBs, local government officials, planners, developers, waste companies, advisory organisations, community representative groups and political representatives. The conference aims to be as interactive as possible with delegates able to put questions directly to the expert panel.

2021 discussion topics

- ✓ Update on planning policy
- ✓ Local Development Plans to shape the next decade
- ✓ Covid-19 as an opportunity to rethink town and city planning
- ✓ Planning for major projects in infrastructure and housing
- ✓ Shaping places with transformative digital planning
- ✓ Community engagement in planning projects
- ✓ Putting climate at the heart of planning and development
- ✓ Planning Engagement Partnership to strengthen public participation
- ✓ The future of town centres post Covid-19
- ✓ A collaborative approach to placemaking
- ✓ Best practice case studies
